Inquiry

The Board received an inquiry from Lucas Winslow, a physical therapist who is also licensed as an athletic trainer in Arkansas. He wants to obtain a Maryland license to practice athletic training, so he can identify himself as an athletic trainer. However, before he applies for the license, he asked for answers to the following questions:

- Since he had a criminal history records check (CHRC) for his physical therapy license, does he also need one when he applies for a Maryland athletic trainer license?

- Does he need a supervising physician if he only plans to work in a clinic as a physical therapist and just identify himself as an athletic trainer?

After reviewing and discussing the inquiry, the Committee concluded that if Mr. Winslow applied for an athletic trainer license, he would be required by statute to submit his fingerprints for a CHRC. After conferring with Board Counsel, the Committee also concluded that, he could not represent himself to the public as an athletic trainer unless he met all of the requirements for practicing in Maryland including having an approved evaluation and treatment protocol with a Maryland licensed physician.

Ms. Monroe will contact Mr. Winslow to explain the statute and the Committee's response to his inquiry.
